- Assist team members by conducting standard acoustic measurements
- Preparation and testing of prototype samples
- Lab maintenance and care (fixing equipment and cables etc)
- Scripting measurement procedures in MATLAB
- Compiling reports on test results
- Fault finding analysis of customer complaints and market returns

What we offer

- A young and international team
- An innovative range of products that puts us at the forefront of the market
- Flat hierarchies, short communication channels, and unbureaucratic teamwork
- A modern office space with a 360° view over Vienna from our rooftop terrace
- Attractive team discounts on LEWITT products

Your qualifications and skills

- Bachelor Degree or higher in Audio Engineering/Acoustics/Physics discipline, completed or in progress. Applicants from an Electrical/Mechanical engineering background with a strong interest in audio will also be considered
- Knowledge of audio engineering concepts (Electro-/Acoustics, Audio Electronics)
- Experience with using MATLAB and Audio Precision tools
- Experience with fault-finding in the context of audio systems
- Hands-on experience in conducting audio measurements
- Skilled in Technical writing
- Effective collaborator and team player with strong problem-solving skills
- High motivation to contribute to the growth of an already very successful company
- English speaking proficiency
